Dakṣā (1)—a Mind-born son of Brahmā, born of his thumb, and father of Mūrti. A progenitor and guardian of the world, born for the creation of worldly beings.¹ Married Prasūti, daughter of Svāyambhuva Manu. Had sixteen daughters of whom he gave thirteen to Dharma, one to Agni, one to Pitṛs, and one to Śiva.³ To the Satra of Viśvasṛk Dakṣa came and was welcomed by all standing, except Brahmā and Śiva. On this Dakṣa burst into anger against Śiva and insulted him saying he had eyes like a monkey, was a breaker of law and convention, lord of the Bhūtas and Gaṇas; he then cursed that Śiva should have no more share in sacrifices and went away. Nandi got enraged at this and imprecated a curse on Dakṣa that he would lose all knowledge of Ātman, and assuming the face of a sheep, would become dull-witted. Bhṛgu then pronounced a counter-curse that those propitiating Śiva shall become Pākhaṇḍas.³ Appointed by Brahmā as the overlord of all Prajāpatis, Dakṣa began the sacrifice of Bṛhaspatisava to which all gods went in groups. Satī also expressed her desire to go and requested permission of Śiva, who reminded her of the insult offered to him.⁴ As she was persistent, she was allowed to attend. Going, she found that she was not properly welcomed by her father. The enraged Satī sat facing the northern direction in yoga and cast off her body by means of the fire of Samādhi to the distress of gods and others. On this the Gaṇa followers of Satī attacked Dakṣa, when Bhṛgu created a class of gods, Ṛbhus who vanquished these Gaṇas.⁵ Having heard of all this from Nārada, Śiva grew angry; out of his anger sprang Virabhadra who was ordered to ruin Dakṣa's sacrifice. The beard of Bhṛgu was cut off, and Dakṣa's head was severed from his body and thrown into the Dakṣiṇāgni.⁶ The Gods waited upon Brahmā who proceeded to Kailāsa. He conciliated Śiva and pleaded for the revival of Dakṣa and continuation of his Yajña promising a share to him.⁷ Śiva agreed but said that Dakṣa should have the face of the sheep, Bhaga, Mitra's eye, and Bhṛgu the beard of a sheep. Agreeing to this Brahmā went with Śiva to the sacrificial hall of Dakṣa. Now Dakṣa began to praise Śiva. When Viṣṇu's offering was poured to secure the continuation of the sacrifice, Viṣṇu presented himself in person when Dakṣa, Ṛtviks, Sadasyas, Rudra and others present, spoke in his praise. Pleased at this, Hari remarked there was no difference among the Trimurtis. Dakṣa brought the yajña to a successful end.⁸

Another account.

Dakṣa son of Varkṣī (Māriṣā-Vi. P.) and Pracetas (Prācetasas-Vi. P.); a Prajāpati. He first created the Devas, Asuras, men and others inhabiting the sky, earth and water. Finding the creation incomplete, he went to the Vindhya for tapas by bathing in the Agha-marṣaṇa and propitiating Hāri with the hymn of hamsaguhya. To him the Lord appeared and urged him to marry Asiknī, daughter of Pañcajana and thus increase the created beings.⁹ Of Asiknī he begot 10,000 sons called Haryaśvas. The latter proceeded to the western direction to the sacred lake Nārāyaṇasaras at the estuary of the Indus. Purified by the bath and instructed by Nārada on the bondage of Samsāra, these took to the path of 'not returning' (anvartana). Dakṣa lamented and begot by the same wife a thousand sons, Śabalāśvas. These again followed the path trodden by their elder brothers, advised by Nārada. The enraged Dakṣa cursed that Nārada, the corrupter of youth, was ever to be a wanderer and to have no settled home. The sage submitted to it without retaliating.¹⁰ Consoled by Brahmā, Dakṣa further begot sixty daughters of Asiknī (Vairinī-M. P.). He bestowed ten on Dharma, twelve on Kaśyapa, twenty-seven on Soma, two each for Bhūta, Angiras, and Kṛśāśva, and the remaining five, of whom only four seem to be named (in v. 21) on Tārksyā.¹¹ Elsewhere it is said that thirteen daughters were given in marriage to Kaśyapa.

Went with Brahmā to meet Hiranyakaśipu; was present at the anointing of Vāmana; father of Aditi;¹³ cursed Śiva to become Lord of the ghosts and goblins; cursed the Moon god with consumption (yakṣma).¹⁴ Wondered at Mārkaṇḍeya's vrata;¹⁵ had not yet seen the Supreme Being; identified with Hari.¹⁶

Drank of the Saubhāgya from the thigh of Hari and brought forth a daughter Satī married by Śiva;¹⁷ a Mahārṣi; heard the Purāṇa from Brahmā along with other sages;¹⁸ son of Brahmā, married Ūrjā.¹⁹

Devakī (I)—(Devakabhojaputrī Sunāmā) a Bhoja princess; a daughter of Devaka, one of the wives of Vasudeva and mother of eight sons of whom Kṛṣṇa was one, all of them comparable to the eight Vasus;¹ oppressed by Kamsa and relieved by Kṛṣṇa; was about to be murdered by Kamsa who heard a divine voice that her eighth child would be the cause of his end; on Vasudeva's assurance to give up the babies as they were born she was allowed to go. Her first child Kīrtimat was taken to Kamsa who returned the baby. She was imprisoned with Vasudeva to watch over the birth of her sons. During her seventh pregnancy the Dhāma of Hari in her womb was transferred by Yogamāyā to that of Rohiṇī and it was said that Devakī aborted. Then the amśa of Hari entered her womb and she grew beautiful every day. Brahmā, Śiva and other Gods waited on her on the eve of Kṛṣṇa's birth and said that her son was to kill

Kamsa: addressed the new-born Kṛṣṇa. In the Svāyam-bhuva epoch she was Pr̥śni and Vasudeva was Sutapa. In another epoch she was Aditi and Vasudeva was Kaśyapa. Yaśodā's daughter exchanged for Devakī's son and Kamsa was told of the birth of a girl; was released from prison along with Vasudeva; forgave and advised Kamsa; was saluted by Kṛṣṇa and Rāma.²

Yudhiṣṭhira asked Arjuna about her welfare.³ Kṛṣṇa's respects to, after his return from Indra's abode.⁴ Devakī came to Rukmiṇī's palace with Vasudeva and Kṛṣṇa;⁵ felt concerned at Kṛṣṇa not returning from the cave of Jāmbavān and aided by others prayed to Durgā for Kṛṣṇa's return;⁶ wondered at the discourses between Nimi and the sages, sons of R̥ṣabha;⁷ embraced Yaśodā at Syamantapañcaka and enquired after her welfare;⁸ praised Kṛṣṇa and Rāma and desired to see her sons who had been killed by Kamsa; saw them with joy when taken back from Sutala by Kṛṣṇa; in her presence they left for heaven.⁹ Her grief at the decease of Rāma, Kṛṣṇa and others; entered fire.¹⁰

Devayānī (I)—the daughter of Śukra and Ūrjasvatī (Yajanī, Jayantī); accompanied Śarmiṣṭhā, the Asura king's daughter to water-sports; when Śarmiṣṭhā clothed herself with Devayānī's dress by mistake, Devayānī treated her as a slave, she being the daughter of a Brahmana Purohita. The Princess became enraged, stripped her and cast her into a well and went away; when she was crying helpless there came Yayāti who was on a hunting expedition. He gave her his upper cloth to wear and lifted her up. Devayānī requested him to be her husband, saying that she had been cursed by Kaca, Br̥haspati's son, to marry only a Kṣatriya. Yayāti agreed and departed. Devayānī reported Śarmiṣṭhā's conduct to her father Śukra who left the palace in disgust. The king implored him on his knees, when Śukra agreed to stay on if Śarmiṣṭhā would be appointed as servant of his daughter. This was agreed upon, and Śarmiṣṭhā became her servant. When Devayānī was married to Yayāti, Śukra presented Śarmiṣṭhā as his daughter's maid. She had two sons Yadu and Turvasu. Learning of her husband's connection with Śarmiṣṭhā during her own pregnancy, Devayānī left for her father's house. Yayāti followed her and was cursed by Śukra to fall a prey to old age. Yayāti appealed to him to mitigate the curse as his desire for enjoyment with his daughter was still keen. Then Śukra said that if anyone would give him his youth and take up old age then he could regain his youth. His son Pūru agreed and once more the king enjoyed the company of Devayānī;² heard the story of an ewe loved by a ram from Yayāti, and thought it was an allusion to her; became detached and cast off her body with her mind on Hari.³

A grandson of Svāyambhuva Manu; hated by his father's more beloved wife, Suruci, took leave of his mother to go to the forest; met Nārada and was blessed, advised and initiated by the sage; as a child of five went to Madhuvana on the bank of the Yamunā; continued to meditate on the Lord's glory for a period of 10,000 years, sometime eating roots and fruits, and sometime fasting; sought refuge in Viṣṇu, standing on one foot to the great consternation of gods.¹

Hari appeared before him, and touching his baby cheeks, conferred on him divine speech; his praise of the Lord; assuring him a place in the mansion of the luminaries, Hari asked him to go home and rule righteously which he did for 36,000 years. Dhruva's return was welcomed by the king and his queens; bowed to his parents and embraced Uttāna; was welcomed by the citizens; getting old, the king anointed Dhruva and retired to forest.² Had two queens: one was Bhramī who gave birth to Kalpa and Vatsara; the other Ilā whose son was Utkala. (According to Br. P. one wife was Bhūmī who gave birth to Sṛṣṭi and Bhavya; according to M. P. Dhanyā, the daughter of Manas was one of his queens and her son was Śiṣṭa.).

Heard the death of his brother Uttama at the hands of a Yakṣa and led an expedition to the city of the Yakṣas: In the war innocents also were killed, whereupon his grand-sire, Manu came to the spot and advised to desist from it, especially as it would irritate Kubera. On this, he met Kubera who praised his valour and his sense of duty and offered some boons. Dhruva asked that he must ever remember the feet of the Lord.³

Ruled the kingdom for 36,000 years, performed yajña, appointed his son on the throne and retired to Viśāla (Badarikāśrama). Meditating on the Lord for 3,000 years, was taken to his eternal abode in the world of luminaries in a divine car. By tapas he set his foot on Yama when he saw his mother going before him to Heaven: was obliged to Hari. the power of whose yoga he knew.⁴

Narmadā (I)—a mahānadi of the Bhāratavarṣa; a R. from the Rkṣa or Rṣyavat hills: (Vindhyan ranges) on its northern bank was Bhṛgukaccha: a sacred river that survived the antarakṣaya, sacred to Pitṛs and for śrāddha; in the neighbourhood of the Haihaya kingdom.¹

The scene of battle between Vṛtra and Indra; here Rukmi challenged Kṛṣṇa when the latter was crossing the stream with Rukmiṇī; its current was stopped by Kārtavīrya.²

The mahātmya of; just like Mārkaṇḍeya this river does not get lost in the time of the deluge; in Kalinga, near the Amarakaṇṭaka hill; has a number of tīrthas like Jaleśvara, Rudrakoṭi, Amrakaṇṭaka, Kapila and Viśalya Karaṇi. The devotee bathing in any tīrtha on the Narmadā gets the benefit of performing an Aśvamedha sacrifice.³

The Lord enshrined here is Maheśvara who devised plans to vanquish Bāṇāsura of Tripura with the help of Nārada. The Lord was much concerned about virtuous ladies in Tripura and Nārada undertook to delude them by proclaiming ordinances to ladies to give gifts to poor and deserving Brahmanas.⁴ Śiva got ready for war here and attacked Tripura with incendiary materials. Out of the three cities comprising Tripura, (s.v.) two fell down reduced to ashes. The first city became converted into the Śri Śaila hill, and the second Amarakaṇṭaka hill, both adorned by the Siddhas, Gandharvas and so on. The Lord shrined at the latter is Jvāleśvara. The third city was unconsumed.⁵

It is said that at the confluence of the Narmadā with Kāverī, Kubera practised tapas in honour of Śiva and became the Lord of the Yakṣas. A bath here is equal to that at the confluence of the Gangā and the Yamunā.⁶

To the north of the Narmadā are a number of tīrthams like Mantreśvara, Garjanā, Amrātaka, Karanyā, Kuṇḍeśvara and others. A bath in each of them rids one of all sins. Then follows other tīrthas, all equally sacred, including Rāvaṇeśvara, the shrines of Kubera, Ahalyātīrtha, and the shrine of Janārdana. Here Agni, Dharmarāja and Vāyu practised asceticism and attained emancipation. A visit to Śuklatīrtham sacred to Rājaṛṣi Cāṇakya washes off all the sins of a life time. Any gift given here bears rich fruits.⁷

Among the other sacred places can be mentioned the Bhṛgutīrtham, Kankhala, where Garuḍa once was in austerities, Kanyātīrtha, Pitāmahatīrtha, and Svargadvāratīrtham; He who reads or listens to the glory of the Narmadā has his wishes fulfilled whatever be his caste.⁸ On its banks Purukutsa heard the Viṣṇu Purāṇa from the sages.⁹ Penance here by Asuras, who became converted into Arhats.¹⁰ Marubhūmiviṣaya on the N. ruled by Śūdras and other castes.¹¹

Nārada (I)—the beloved tenth son of Brahmā, born of his lap; one of the twelve, who knew the dharma ordained by Hari; a celibate; an attendant of Hari; was taught the Bhāgavata by the father; and he gave it in his turn to Vyāsa; guru of Viśoka (s.v.) author of Sātvatatāntra; worshipped Nārāyaṇa in Bhāratavarṣa by following the course of Sāṅkhya and yoga; did not comprehend Hari's māyā; faith in Kriyayoga which he expounded; in previous births, he was a Gandharva by name Upabarhaṇa and a son of a dāsi.¹

A devaṛṣi holding the vīṇā in his hand; called on Vyāsa and complimented him on having produced the Bhārata and asked him why he looked uneasy; when he admitted his inability to explain the cause, the sage treated him to a discourse on devotion to Hari and incidentally gave an account of his own past; how in a previous birth he was a son of a servant-maid in the service of seers and Brahmanas, how he was brought up by the latter with affection, how their association helped him to cultivate devotion to Lord, how after their departure he wandered aimlessly with his mother who soon died, how he was sitting in the forest meditating on the Lord when He appeared in his mind; in a later Kalpa he was born of Brahmā as Nārada;² advised Haryaśvās on the path of 'not returning' (anivartana) which they adopted; with his mind set on Īśvara-Brahman he advised again their brothers Śabalāśvās in the same way and they followed it too; for so advising his sons, he was cursed by Dakṣa to be always a wanderer with no settled home;³ accompanied Angiras to the court of Citraketu lamenting his child's death; instructed him in Mantrapaniṣad to realise the presence of Sankarṣaṇa; showed the king and his relations the Jīva of the dead child but pointing how the Ātman alone is eternal; the text of the vidyā imparted to Citraketu; went back to Angiras in Brahmaloka; could not find fault with Hara for violating Brahmaloka dharma; told Śuka the story of Citraketu; could not comprehend the Great Being;⁴ could not comprehend Hari's māyā;⁵ cursed Nalakūbera and Maṇigrīva, sons of Kubera, for their intoxicated pride; his view on the merits of poverty as contrasted with wealth; went to Nara-Nārāyaṇa's abode after cursing Kubera's sons;⁶ welcomed Brahmā while with Priyavrata and his father Manu;⁷ called 'on Prācīnabarhis and imparted Adhyātmataṭva by narrating the story of Puraṁjana and explaining by it the relation of Jīva to Paramātmā; then he went back to Siddhaloka; met Prācetasas performing austerities on the western sea and advised the quick path to reach Hari; departed to Brahmaloka; sang the praise of Ananta in Brhmasabha;⁸ advised Hariścandra to pray to Varuṇa for a child;⁹ spoke to Ūrvaśī of Purūravas as a handsome person;¹⁰

informed Hiranyākṣa of Viṣṇu's residence in Rasātala; spoke of Kardama's greatness and personality to Devahūti who from that time fixed her mind on him; came with and went with Brahmā to see Kapila born of Kardama;¹¹ told Śiva about Sati's self-immolation in Dakṣa's yajña;¹² met Dhruva coming out of his father's city and advised him as to the way of worshipping Viṣṇu by initiating him into the secret mantra; met Uttānapāda and encouraged the distressed king that the boy would soon return and add glory to his line; praised Dhruva;¹³ learnt from Hari the true knowledge which he imparted to Prahlāda; saw Indra taking Hiranyakaśipu's queen and asked him to set her at liberty which he did; then he placed her under safe custody as she was pregnant until her husband's return; taught to Prahlāda a mantra sacred to Hari.¹⁴

Spoke of Jamba's death to Namuci and others. Deputed by Brahmā, Nārada went to Gods requesting them to no more fight the asuras;¹⁵ informed Kamsa of the divinity of Vasudeva, Vṛṣṇis, Nandas, and went with Gods to encourage Devakī;¹⁶ induced Yavana to lay siege to Mathurā;¹⁷ narrated the story of Pradyumna to his parents; informed Māyāvati that the child discovered in the fish was Pradyumna, Kāma reborn, and hence her husband; revealed Pradyumna's identity to the doubters of Dvārakā;¹⁸ sang the praise of Kṛṣṇa when he lifted the Govardhana; informed Kamsa that Rāma and Kṛṣṇa were the sons of Vasudeva who had kept them in secret and prevented Kamsa from starting out to kill Vasudeva; told Kamsa his story of his birth; visited Kṛṣṇa and spoke to him in secret what he was destined to do beginning with the day after when he would kill Kamsa and others and left for his place;¹⁹ informed Kṛṣṇa of imprisonment of Aniruddha by Bāṇa and Śāmba by the Kurus; visited Dvārakā desirous of seeing Kṛṣṇa in the house of each of his numerous wives at the same time and saw that Brahmanyadeva who was engaged in different things at the different houses, was welcomed separately in every house; left the place pleased; called on Kṛṣṇa to inform him of Yudhiṣṭhira's desire to perform Rājasūya; the purpose of his visit was accomplished;²⁰ narrated in the Rājasūya sacrifice of Yudhiṣṭhira, how Caidya the hater of Hari entered into Him, the Supreme Being, as well as the previous history of Damaghoṣa and Dantavaktra.²¹

Came to see Bhīṣma on his death-bed;²² addressed by Yudhiṣṭhira, Nārada said that everything was the work of time and the will of God; informed Yudhiṣṭhira that Dhṛtarāṣṭra was in the Himālayas engaged in the penance and would die within five days; and went back to heaven;²³ came to see Parīkṣit practising prāyopaveśa,²⁴ welcomed by Kṛṣṇa, Yudhiṣṭhira and others, Nārada, drew the attention of Kṛṣṇa to the necessity of vanquishing Śālva who was out to cut the root of the Yādavas; knew of Kṛṣṇa's glory and greatness and told Lakṣmaṇā of it; praised Vasudeva for his question on Karma; left for Syamantapañcaka;²⁵ went with Kṛṣṇa to Mithilā, heard Srutigītā from Nārāyaṇa at Nārāyaṇāśrama; visited Śvetadvīpa during Brahmasatra; called upon Vyāsa and communicated to him what he heard from Nārāyaṇa; advised by Vṛtra to worship Śiva as the most easily pleased among the Gods;²⁶ left with other sages for Piṇḍāraka; visited Dvārakā and met Vasudeva; questioned by him on Bhāgavata dharma, he related the conversation that took place between Nimi, the Videha King, and the nine sages, the sons of R̥ṣabha;²⁷ views of, on thirty characteristics of Dharma, on the Varṇas and women; on a Brahmacāri, Vānaprastha, a Yati, and a Gṛhastha;²⁸ enquired of Brahmā the knowledge leading to the realisation of Ātman; a Mahābhāgavata who attained Hari through devotion.²⁹

Sang a gāthā in honour of Kārtavīrya Arjuna: compiled the Nāradya dharma; told the Rāmāyaṇa to Vālmīki,³⁰ learnt the details of the vow Nakṣatrapuruṣa from Mahādeva and of Māheśvaravratam from Nandikeśa; on the latter's advice took a bath at Prayāgā.³¹

Informed Maya at Tripuram of the preparations of gods to attack his city; visited Ilāvṛtam sacred to Bali; arranged, at the request of Indra, the marriage of Umā with Śiva;³² His sister was Arundatī, wife of Vasiṣṭha; informed Sāvitrī's father of the short lease of life of the bridegroom chosen;³³ cursed Dakṣa's sons.³⁴

Purañjana (I)—a King of extensive learning, had a friend whose name and behaviour were not known; went in search of a suitable place for the realisation of various pleasures; this he found in a city of nine entrances resembling Bhogavatī on the southern side of the Himālayas. By accident he met a charming lady protected by a serpent and followed by a number of ladies and men; moved by her charms he requested her to be his wife and she agreed; For a hundred years they continued to enjoy pleasures; Purañjana used to visit the kingdoms, Vibhrājita, Saurabha, Dakṣiṇa and Uttara Pāñcālas, Grāmaka, Vaiśasa and others through the different entrances of the city guarded by the Superintendent; influenced by her charms he came completely under her control; mad with desire for hunting, once he left his queen and went to the forest and after killing many a game, he returned home and desired to meet the queen whom he found lying on the bare ground in misery; he consoled her and once more yielded to her love and influence at the cost of his youth; he had 1100 sons and 110 daughters for whom he found worthy wives and suitable bridegrooms; he was then engaged in animal sacrifices, when the followers of Caṇḍavega, a Gandharva, attacked the city of Purañjana and the Superintendent defended it single-handed for 100 years. This placed the citizens and the kinsmen in misery.

A daughter of Kāla, once in the company of Pūru went to Bhaya, the Lord of the Yavanas to marry him; he adopted her as his sister; with her and his brother Prajvāra he set out to wander in the world; in his tour the Yavanas attacked the city of Purañjana; Prajvāra burnt it down; Purañjana was seized and taken to the Yavana camp; the sacrificial animals tore him to pieces; was born as the daughter of Vidarbha Rājasimha; married by Malayadhvaja Pāṇḍya and gave birth to a daughter and seven sons, all kings of the Drāviḍa country. When the Pāṇḍya left for penance she went with him and served him; she wailed at his death; and when about to give up her own life, a Brahmana who called himself her friend consoled her by saying that he and she were once the two Hamsas of Mānasa and that she took to a household life and underwent all miseries; instructed thus she recollected her old status and remained calm;¹ an allegory for Jīva and Paramātman; Pāñcālas are the five senses while the nine entrances to the city refer to the nine dvāras of the body; sometimes the Jīva is a male sometimes a female, and sometimes God, and sometimes man or beast in accordance with Karma.²

Pr̥thu (1)—(Vainya) the son got out of Vena by the churning of his right arm by the sages to save him from falling into hell: is considered the ninth incarnation of Hari. The first king who introduced agriculture.¹ Pane-gyrised by the Gandharvas, and Siddhas playing on different musical instruments. For his coronation, presents came from Indra, Brahmā, Yama, Rudra and other gods; praised by Sūta, Māgadha and Bandin. Though these were discouraged, yet they continued to praise him for his righteous administrative policy. His sway extended to the Udaya hills.²

Due to scarcity of supply, people complained of hunger, when Pr̥thu aimed his arrow and threatened to vanquish her. The earth let herself be milked. With Svā-yambhuva Manu for the calf and his own palms as pail; he milked the essence of all plants. This was followed by the sages, gods, asuras and others. Hilly tracts were levelled, and different kinds of villages, cities and towns were organised for the first time.³

Consecrated himself to perform one hundred āsvame-dhas on the Sarasvatī. When 99 were over, jealous Indra ran away with the sacrificial horse. Advised by Atri, the king's son pursued him as the kite did Rāvaṇa and recovering the animal, earned the title Vijitāśva. Again Indra stole the horse, and Vijitāśva pursued him and recovered it. Pr̥thu saw marks of sin on the part of Indra behaving like à miscreant and aimed his arrow at him. Persuaded by Brahmā, he controlled his rage and became friendly to Indra. On advice from Viṣṇu, he cast off his enmity to Indra and embraced him. Asked of the Lord to be ever devoted to him.⁴

On his return to the capital, the citizens accorded him a welcome. Made the middle country between Gangā and Yamunā his home. Advised his subjects, who praised him, to conduct themselves righteously. Was visited by Sanatkumāra with three other sages who taught him ātmagñāna.⁵ His queen Arcis gave birth to five sons, all rising to his ideal. He followed the path of the Lokapālas, and his fame as of Somarāja reached the ears of women as that of Rāma the ears of the virtuous.⁶ Finding himself aged, he entrusted the kingdom to his sons and left with his queen to the forest. Launched on a course of severe penance until his last breath went out of his body. In the funeral pyre which the queen lighted for her husband's cremation, she threw herself and ascended to heaven, praised by the wives of the gods.⁷ Thus Pṛthu, the lord of seven dvīpas, still thirsting to have more territory, renounced his kingdom and sought refuge with Hari.⁸ A Mantrakṛt of the Cākṣusa Manu line. The first Kṣatriya to be a Rāja. By him the earth became known as Pṛthvi.⁹

His accession was the occasion of a pratisarga when rulers were appointed over several classes of beings; got the grace of Viṣṇu and milked the cow-earth, got grains and eatables and made the earth flow with milk and honey; there was no need for the application of the Arthaśāstra maxims; he levelled the ground from Cape Comorin to the Himālayas and cleared the forests;¹⁰ made it safe and secure; made the 16 gifts.¹¹

Prayāgā (II) — (Māhātmyam): Markaṇḍeya to Yudhiṣṭhira on; here is Prajāpatikṣetra; people who bathe here go to heaven and who die here are liberated from samsāra: guarded by Indra; there are five deep channels in Prayāgā with the Ganges flowing in their midst. Sins are washed off by entering its boundary. The goddess Yamunā, the daughter of the Sun God is ever present: It is a place haunted by the Gods, Asuras, Ṛṣis and Siddhas;¹ one who remembers Prayāgā from his own native home or from a foreign place on the eve of his death goes to the world of Brahmā. Leaving the heaven, he is reborn as a King of Jambūdvīpa; gifts of cows, jewels and gold here attain great merit: The giver is born in Uttara Kuru regions and enjoys long life.² One should not drive to the place in a conveyance drawn by bullocks lest the virtue of bathing should be lost. Giving daughters in marriage, and death near the Akṣayaṇa helps one in going to the world of Śiva. One should go and do charities with utmost faith. Here are 60 crores and 10000 holy spots; well-known for a Śiva shrine: Pratiṣṭhāna lies to the east of the Ganges, and to its north lies the Hamsaprapatana Tīrtha. There are again Ūrvaśīramaṇa, Sandhya Vāṭa, Koṭī Tīrtha, and others, all holy;³ by merely listening to the greatness of Prayāgā a man gets liberated. To the south of Prayāgā there is a Rṇamocana Tīrtha where by residing for a night and by bathing, one never runs into debts. A pilgrimage to P. gives the benefit of an Aśvamedha sacrifice: relieves his manes for ten generations: its circumference is five yojanas and every step is sacred: the greatness of the Yamunā described;⁴ a man dying at P. gets the benefits of a Yogin: the king of all tīrthas: P. is again the place where both Kambala and Aśvatara reside. It is the altar of Prajāpati. It is more sacred, being situated on the banks of the Ganges. It is the giver of heaven, the personification of bliss and truth: Reading the Mahātmya takes one to heaven;⁵ Here Brahmā, Viṣṇu and Śiva are all present. Brahmā stands on the Northern part of the Tīrtha to protect it: Viṣṇu is represented as Venī Mādhava, while Śiva is present in the shape of a banyan tree. In addition to them, the gods, oceans and mountains also live there. It is known as Prajāpati Indrakṣetra. One who remembers this every day attains heaven. After hearing this, Yudhiṣṭhira is said to have bathed in Prayāgā.⁶

tion to Hari even from childhood as it is rare to be born a man, and even as a man one half of the life is wasted in sleep and one quarter in old age; once one got into the groove of samsāra it was not possible to get out of it; so he asked them to aim at knowledge following the pure Bhāgavata Dharma; asked by the Daitya boys how and when he got that knowledge, he narrated how when his father went out to Mandara for penance, his mother was taken captive by Indra who set her at liberty on the advice of Nārada, who kept her in custody until his father's return. As she was pregnant she prayed to the sage for the welfare of the child in the womb; thus he earned the grace of Nārada. He therefore looked upon ātman as the only thing eternal and all other things unreal; to attain Hari there were several ways, such as listening to his stories, or singing his praise; samsāra and other objects of desire were to be discarded and anybody of any caste or creed could attain salvation by worshipping Hari; when this was reported to his father by the tutor, Prahlāda was sent for and threatened with death if he persisted in his devotion to Hari. Prahlāda was defiant in the sabhā of Hiranyakaśipu; found in Narasimha the Lord Vāsudeva and spoke to those in the sabhā, but in vain; taking up his sword Hiranyakaśipu asked him to show Hari at the post near by which he knocked with his fist; out came Narasimha and destroyed Hiranyakaśipu in the midst of portents; universal rejoicing and praise of Hari; the Gods found Narasimha still raging in anger and requested Prahlāda to praise Him; his praise; pleased, the Lord prompted him to ask for boons; Prahlāda said that desires were the seeds of samsāra and therefore he did not want them; he only wanted to be ever devoted to him; Narasimha asked him to be king and at the same time be devoted to him: and when the time came for him he could cast off his body and get himself merged into Hari; then Prahlāda requested for the pardon and purification of his father which were granted; after the funeral ceremonies of his father, Prahlāda became king; then he worshipped Brahmā, Śiva and other Gods who all blessed him; obliged to Viṣṇu;⁷ father of Āyusmān, Śibi, Bāṣkala and Virocana;⁸ Indra afraid of;⁹ a boon to Prahlāda not to kill any of his race;¹⁰ praise of by Bali who belonged to his family; arrived when Bali bound by ropes was addressing Hari; and was bowed to by him; addressed Hari; Kṛṣṇa who had promised Prahlāda not to slay princes of his line allowed Bāṇa to escape; blessings to Bali;¹¹ his request to Hari before leaving for Sutala; left Sutala or the great cave; attained final release by satsanga.¹²

Parīkṣit compared to for his pure devotion;¹³ Prahlāda compared to the moon shining in the sky.¹⁴ One of the three Indras of the Dānavas and Asuras;¹⁵ fought for 300 years with Indra, but was finally defeated by Rāji son of Āyu; defeated by Indra in the churning of the ocean for nector (an avatār of Viṣṇu);¹⁶ duration of rule, as long as that of Bali;¹⁷ deceived by Bṛhaspati begged excuse of Śukra;¹⁸ Brahmā was purohita to God incarnate,¹⁹ made the 16 gifts,²⁰ asked by Bali why the Asuras lost their effulgence Prahlāda found out by Yoga the Lord in the womb of Aditi and predicted evil to the Asuras; Bali poohpoohed and spoke of his prowess. Prahlāda predicted that he would be ruined with his kingdom for having insulted the Lord.²¹ Indra of the Asuras²² of the Vitalam;²³ Maitreya's question on the career of;²⁴ tormented by his father for thinking of God Viṣṇu in different ways;²⁵ was administered poison and other means to kill him; Śambara's hand in;²⁶ his father killed by Narasimha²⁷ becomes the lord (Indra) of the Daityas, and Dānavas.²⁸

Bali (v)—a son of Virocana and the grandson of Prah-lāda;¹ married Vindhyāvalī and Aśanā; had one hundred sons of whom Bāṇa was the eldest; all of them were kings; king of the Asuras;¹ other chief sons were Kumbhanābha, Gardabhākṣa, and Kuśi; two daughters were Śakunī and Pūtanā;¹ carried away the crown of Hari inlaid with gems; was pursued by the warder of the city, Garuḍa who recovered it after a fight.²

Indra on the advice of Hari-Ajita sought an alliance with him and it was concluded; they also agreed to churn the ocean in a co-operative spirit; got exhausted in the Amṛtamathana; appropriated Uccaiśravas which came out of the Amṛtamathana; in the Devāsura war following the Amṛtamathana, Bali became the commander and was riding in an aerial car with the Asuras; finding it difficult to fight Indra and the Gods openly he took to illusory methods by resorting to creating fire, storms, rains, etc.; encouraged by Hari's presence, Indra again called him to battle and Bali fell down unconscious after a strenuous fight; taken to Astagiri where by Sañjivini Vidyā, Śukra brought him back to life; the Bhṛgu Brahmanas aided him in the completion of his Viśvajit sacrifice and anointed him with mahābhiṣeka; receiving gifts from all quarters Bali marched to the city of Indra on a chariot given by Bhṛgu and besieged it; on Indra and the Gods vacating the city on the advice of Brhaspati, Bali took possession of it and performed 100 Aśvamedhas with the aid of the Bhṛgu Brahmanas;³ once Bali was engaged in performing the Aśvamedha in the Bhṛgukaccha on the northern bank of the Narmadā. Tither came the Vāmana Hari in the form of a dwarf and Brahmācārīn, whom Bali welcomed and requested to accept some gift; pleased with his speech Vāmana asked for 3 feet of ground, and though Bali offered to give more he declined it; Śukra knew that he was Hari and dissuaded Bali from agreeing to his request; Bali's resolve to keep his word resulting in his being cursed by Śukra to lose all śrī; gift to Vāmana helped by his wife Vindhyāvalī; Vāmana's viśvarūpa and his measuring the Earth and Heaven by two feet; seeing the Asuras beaten by Hari's attendants, Bali asked them not to fight; knowing Hari's mind Garuḍa bound Bali with Varuṇa's cords; on the sutya day of the sacrifice Bali thought of Prahlāda; asked by Vāmana to show room for placing his third foot, Bali was unable to find any space except his head and was doomed to hell; Bali's prayer to Hari; Prahlāda's arrival and prayer to the Lord; appeal of Vindyaṅgalī and Brahmā; humbled by Vāmana; blessed by Hari to be the Indra of the Sāvartṇi epoch and in the meantime king of Sutala; attained permanent fame.⁴

After taking leave of Hari and praising him duly, Bali and Prahlāda entered the cave Sutala; the lordship of the worlds had no charm for him; moved by his devotion, Viṣṇu once acted as his door-keeper; got the grace of Hari and attained permanent fame and final release by satsaṅga;⁵ a devotee of Hari; was obliged to Viṣṇu and knew his yoga-māyā; one of the twelve, who knew the dharma ordained by Hari;⁶ Parīkṣit compared to, for his courage.⁷ His queen was Aśanā.⁸ A resident of Pātāla;⁹ anointed his five sons in the seventh yuga of the Treta, and wandered unseen by others;¹⁰ a servant of Hiraṇyakaśipu.¹¹

Bali asked Prahlāda the reason for the loss of refulgence on the part of the Asuras; he discovered the Lord in the womb of Aditi and spoke of his incarnation and the consequent ruin of the Asuras; Bali spoke of his prowess and insulted the Lord when Prahlāda cursed him to lose all his kingship. He consulted Śukra as to what should be done if the Lord should visit his yajña; Śukra said he must be given some choice gift. The Lord appeared and wanted space for three steps. Bali consented. The first and second was placed in heaven and the earth and the third on his head. The Lord asked Bali to reside in the Pātāla region and made Indra the king of the three worlds. Bali to occupy the place of Indra in the Sāvartṇi epoch; until then he was to receive the gifts not given properly, ceremonies done with non-śrotrīyas, insincere yajñas, giftless yajñas, irregular karmas and improper study of the Vedas;¹² image of.¹³

Bhā. X. 28. 16-17; Br. III. 13. 52.

Brahmā (I)—Pitāmaha, (Lokapitāmaha)—appeared on the lotus from the navel of Hari at the end of the Kalpa: the Lord with four faces: origin of five faces connected with his daughter and wife Śatarūpā;¹ Born of Hari's grace: expression of rajas: By Yoga saw the one Puruṣa lying on Śeṣa: Praised Him, who instructed him in the art of creation: nine-fold creation from Prakṛti; created the Vedas and human society: created also a mind-born son to Śambhu who attained Brahmālokam: a second son of his, was Bhuva, who was sent to the mother—earth: the third son Bhūrbhuva and his son became Gopati. From his body was created Gāyatrī, who became his wife: then came Prajāpatis, oceans, etc.²

Known for impartiality, Parīkṣit compared to him;³ obliged to Viṣṇu;⁴ knew the dharma of Hari; a Parameṣṭhin;⁵ resident at Gayā and guards Benares;⁶ his golden city being in Meru;⁷ his curses and blessings moderate.⁸

A day of, is a thousand cycles of the 4 yugas; Pralaya, the night of Brahmā; period of his life is dvīparārdha. All the fourteen Manus flourish during his day.⁹ Author of the Atharva mantras; learnt the Veda from Hari and taught it to Manu;¹⁰ his sons were Marīci and Atri whose son was Soma. The last was made the lord of Brahmanas, stars, etc. Influenced Soma to restore Tārā to Bṛhaspati. Found out that Budha was Soma's son. Punished Soma as a sinful planet for enjoying Tārā.¹¹ Made Dakṣa the overlord of the Prajāpatis;¹² called on Kailāsa.¹³ Presented Pṛthu with armour and prevented him from slaying Indra.¹⁴ Visited Manu and Priyavrata and addressed her on home life.¹⁵ gifts to Māya.¹⁶

Did not help Durvāsa pursued by the cakra of Viṣṇu;¹⁷ was unable to answer the question of his son, Sanaka and others on the subtilty of yoga; remembered Hari who explained it in the form of a Hamsa.¹⁸ Praised Viṣṇu for killing Kālānemi.¹⁹ Met Hari-Ajita to restore the fortune of Indra; cursed by Durvāsa and his prayer.²⁰ Performed yajña in Janaloka;²¹ was displeased at Bhṛgu's behaviour;²² went with Bhṛgu and Dakṣa to Hiranyakaśipu engaged in austerities; granted boons to him and disappeared. Was present at Prahlāda's coronation;²³ when petitioned by the gods to show a way to get rid of Hiranyakaśipu, suggested Hari for it. Took the form of a calf,²⁴ when Hari in the guise of a cow went to drink the immortalising fluid in Śrīpura; praised Śiva who burnt the Tripura;²⁵ charioteer of Tripurāri.²⁶

Came to see Vāmana measuring the world with his two steps; washed his feet with waters; and with other Gods worshipped Him with tributes; addressed Vāmana-Hari; with his approval Vāmana was taken to Indra's capital; praised Vāmana's deeds and also Aditi.²⁷

On an appeal from Mother-Earth that she had to bear a heavy burden of the Asuras, Brahmā went with Śiva to the shore of the milk ocean and eulogised Hari by Puruṣasūkta; they were told of the incarnation of Kṛṣṇa at Vasudeva's residence; encouraged Devakī on the eve of Kṛṣṇa's birth; came to see Hari at Bṛndāvan; was staggered at the potency of his māyā and praised the Lord.²⁸

Suggested to Raivata that Balarāma was a suitable husband for Revatī and asked him to give his daughter in marriage to him;²⁹ attended the sacrifices of Varuṇa and Yudhiṣṭhira.³⁰ Went with all the Devas to Dvārakā first to remind Kṛṣṇa to go back to his eternal abode; addressed the Lord on the purpose and fulfilment of the avatār.³¹

Wondered at Mārkaṇḍeya's vrata,³² heard the Bhāgavata Purāṇa from Hari.³³ narrated to Nārada the legend of the creation of the universe;³⁴ allusion to his fear of Rudra;³⁵ worshipped by Vālī with fire rite.

Bharata (1)—(Jaḍa): the eldest of the hundred sons of R̥ṣabha (Nābhi) and Jayanti; was devoted to Nārāyaṇa:¹ a Mahābhāgavata: married Pāñcajanī, daughter of Viśvarūpa and she gave birth to five sons; was installed on the throne; protected his subjects righteously and performed yajñas by the method of Cāturhotra; having spent a million years thus he divided his property among his sons and placed Sumati on his throne: he left for the hermitage of Pulastya as a hermit and became constant in the worship of Hari; gave up his kingdom and sought refuge in Hari:² a sage;² one day when sitting on the bank of the river Cakranadī he saw a deer coming to the river and quenching her thirst; hearing a lion roar near by the deer took a leap when the young one slipped from her womb into the water and the deer herself fell dead: seeing this helpless one of a deer. Bharata loved it and brought it up as his own son: out of strong attachment to it he was born as a deer when he remembered his past life and was full of remorse: gave up his body by falling into the waters:³ next he was born as the son of a Brahmana of the Angirasa line and with upanayana the father taught him Vedic literature: on his parents' death his brothers found him mad and unpractical and appointed him to work in the fields: once a certain Vṛṣala chieftain wanted to offer human sacrifice to Bhadrakālī and finding that the victim had escaped, his attendants took this Jaḍabharata by force for sacrifice; at the point of his being sacrificed, Kālī who knew the Brahmana's spiritual virtue appeared in a ferocious form and cutting off the heads of all, rescued Bharata;⁵ once on his way to sage Kapila, King Rahūgaṇa felt the need for a palanquin-bearer and seeing Bharata the dull-witted at a distance on the banks of the Ikṣumatī, asked him to bear his palanquin; finding it carried irregularly causing inconvenience to him the haughty king chastised the Brahmana and threatened him with punishment; to this Bharata made a learned reply that all his remarks were true and nothing would harm one who had realised himself; on this the king free from haughtiness, thought that he was a yogin, and perhaps Kapila incognito; so he asked him who he was; Bharata spoke on mind and its eleven courses modified by māyā as obstacles to the dawn of knowledge; he continued to say that what was important was jñāna or knowledge which could be acquired by association with great and detached men; in his own case he got defeated in his purpose by attachment to a deer.⁶

Bharata described in metaphysical language samsāra as a forest, and the jivas as a company of travelling merchants now meeting a Gandharva and now devils, now gathering wealth and now robbed of it; he then explained the implications of samsāra in plain language and said that the quest after desires and pleasures led one to acquire more karma and sow the seeds for a further cycle of births and deaths;⁷ was succeeded as king by his son Sumati,⁸ Manu so-called for sustaining the people; after him the Varṣa came to be known as Bhārata;⁹ desirous of the territory on earth.¹⁰

Deputed by the sages to find out the greatest of the Gods, went to his father's court without invoking him in praise; Brahmā grew angry but restrained his anger. Then he went to Śiva, who embraced him. Bhṛgu told him that he did not like his behaviour when Śiva grew angry and started to attack him with his trident. He was stopped by Pārvatī's intervention. Next he called on Hari and kicked him while sleeping, on His chest. Hari coolly bore it, bowed to him and said that only then he became purified and united with Lakṣmī. Bhṛgu wondered at his patience and concluded that he was the greatest of all the gods.⁴ Wondered at Mārkaṇḍeya's vrata; took part in crowning Vena to avoid the evils of anarchy; did not find fault with Hara violating dharma.⁵ Officiated at Viśvasṛja yajña when he cursed the followers of Śiva to become Pākhaṇḍis; created

R̥bhus to put down the Pramathas and others who disturbed Dakṣa's sacrifice; was bound by Maṇiman and the beard cut off. It was Śiva's wish that the beard of a sheep be substituted for his original one.⁶

Was born again of Carṣaṇi and Varuṇa⁷ acted as adhvaryu in Soma's Rājasūya;⁸ cursed Viṣṇu to take the form of a human being seven times for slaying his wife to protect Indra.⁹ Praised Śiva out to burn Tripura.¹⁰

Performed penance on the Narmadā but was not free from anger; cursed Śiva's riding animal when it was sent to examine his mind; but still he prayed to the Lord who blessed a tīrtha at that place in his honour.

Appointed Priyavrata in charge of the kingdom and retired to tapas. Spent 71 yugas meditating on Viṣṇu, and gave Him the name, Hari. Did not take objection to Hara's violation of dharma, though he was one of the twelve who knew the dharma ordained by Hari.⁴ Served as calf for Pṛthu to milk the earth.⁵ Formed one half of the Creator and the other was Śatarūpā. Asked Brahmā for the earth being lifted out of the waters to form an abode for him and his subjects, when a Varāha issued from Brahmā's nostrils to do the work.⁵

Renouncing the world, Manu stood on one leg meditating on the glory of Hari on the bank of the Sunandā for a hundred years; when the Asuras tried to attack and devour him, Hari in the form of yajña slew them.⁷ The first to give out Smārta dharma, Varṇāśrama dharma and the first to practice śiṣṭācāra; requested by Brahma to protect the Vedas and consequently the yajñas. Divided the Vedas into four sections.⁸ An Ādipurusa. From him were born Vairājas.⁹
